DETAILED ACTION

Terminal Disclaimer

1. The terminal disclaimer filed on September 13, 2005 disclaiming the terminal portion of any patent granted on this application which would extend beyond the expiration date of application serial No. 10/619511 has been reviewed and is accepted. The terminal disclaimer has been recorded.

Indicated Allowability Withdrawn

2. the indicated allowability made in the last Office Action of June 14, 2005 has been withdrawn in view of the new art provided by the applicant.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 3, 6, 9 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by The Partial English Translation of German DE 599159.

The Partial English Translation relates to a long release sheet having thereon a plurality of adhesive sheet and a protective member (see German patent, figure-1). The protective member can have disc shape and appears from the drawings to be thicker than the adhesive sheet. The disc member does not overlap the adhesive sheet as shown in figure-1, or may partially intrude as shown in figure-3.

Figure-3 also shows that the surface of the overlapping part is not more than 50% of the adhesive sheet portion. The laminate can be wound into a roll.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 5 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over The Partial English Translation of the German patent.

The Partial English Translation, as discussed above, fails to teach that the protective member has a thickness of 5-100 micron greater than the adhesive sheet. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to provide the protective member of the English Translation to have a thickness of 5-100 micron greater than the adhesive sheet for optimizing the protection, when in a roll form, absent any showing of criticality by the applicant.

As for the adhesive sheet having specific size and shape, it would have been obvious matter of design choice to modify the English Translation's adhesive sheet to a specific size and shape, as it merely involves a change in size and shape which is generally recognized to be within the level of ordinary skill in the art.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 2, 4, 7, 16-17, 19 and 20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art uncovered so far fails to teach that the cover sheet portions are provided longitudinally in the central portion of the release sheet with the protective member is provided on both side portions of the release sheet, or that the adhesive sheet comprises a resin base and an adhesive layer.
